

Prof Shahid Khan Associate Postgraduate Dean, NHS England – WTE East of England with responsibility for over 3000 Specialty and Specialist grade doctors (SAS doctors) and locally employed doctors (LEDs) in East of England. His main priorities as Associate Postgraduate Dean is to improve awareness of the contributions by SAS and Locally Employed Doctors to NHS as well as improving their working lives. Appointed consultant physician in 1995 at the Lister Hospital, Stevenage, Herts, for nearly two decades he led the Trust's educational activities first as the Clinical Tutor and later as the Director of Medical Education and Associate Medical Director. He was the Founding Editor of the Hertfordshire Journal of Medicine from 2005 till 2018. He is visiting Professor, University of Hertfordshire and Academic Medical Lead for The School of Life and Medical Sciences, University of Hertfordshire. Among other initiatives he has contributed to development of Physician Associate Masters Programme, training medical educators and International Medical MD programme. Prof Khan continues in full time clinical practice and is Trustee for several charities.